SUBJECT: Approaches for Possible Sale of a
Supercomputer to a "Gray Area" Country

SUMMARY OF CONCLUSIONS

Under Secretary Schneider convened this executive committee meeting of the SIG/TT to determine whether SIG member agencies could devise a supplementary safeguard regime to allow the export of supercomputers to India, and potentially to other "gray area" countries. The Under Secretary also pointed out the necessity of ensuring that Japan instituted the same controls.

The Under Secretary recognized that there was opposition among several SIG members, particularly in the intelligence community, to providing a supercomputer to India. However, the Under Secretary asked that the question of whether to take the action to sell or lease a supercomputer to a "gray area" nation be kept separate from the issue of the adequacy of controls. He stated that it was not US policy at this time to sell a supercomputer to such countries, but in the event it became policy it was prudent to identify an adequate control regime in advance.

After a brief discussion of options the members agreed to attempt to formulate an acceptable generic safeguard regime. Under Secretary Schneider tasked State DAS Dale Tahtinen to form an interagency working group to produce a draft and to develop a negotiating strategy for use in persuading the GOJ to adopt the same supplemental controls.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

FROM: Julian C. Nall
National Intelligence Officer for S & T
SUBJECT: Recent meeting of the SIG/TT

S25X1

1. On 30 January, [] I attended a meeting of the SIG/TT chaired by Bill Schneider. The purpose of the meeting was to consider the possible sale of a CDC Cyber 205 supercomputer to India.

2. Bill Schneider took the approach of asking what "bullet proof" safeguard regimes could be designed so that the sale could take place. Some stated that it would require 24-hour guard of the equipment by Americans and operation of the equipment only by Americans. Most agreed these would be conditions unacceptable to the Indians. TTAC is working with the SIG/TT staff which was instructed to draft a set of safeguard regimes which would be considered at the next meeting of the SIG.

3. Unless otherwise instructed by you or the DCI, the CIA position will remain that no sale would be preferable, because of the threat of Soviet access and the potential for nuclear use by India. In the event that a decision is made to give India access, however, minimum conditions should be that the computer remain totally under U.S. control, including service, protection, and operation.

4. There was also discussion about negotiations with the Japanese to assure that they agree with safeguards if the equipment is sold by the U.S. and their cooperation not to sell similar Japanese equipment if there is no U.S. sale. The SIG agreed that discussions with Tokyo need to begin in the near future and, in any case, before the proposal is made formally to India.
